—from the Winter 2020 issue

“Henni Aftan's subjects, rendered from long periods of observation, are ultimately presented with an intriguing spareness: an economy of lines, essential colors. Sometimes there's a flatness that is reminiscent of senior artist Alex Katz, but more often she builds texture in surprising and unexpected ways.”

“Shona McAndrew's recent work is a nonhierarchical collaboration between artist and subject, one that isn't charged with old notions of power, but allows the sitter a new freedom of expression.”
